SIGNAL GIVEN FOR BIG STRIKE

Industrial War Declared in Great Britain.

LABORITES HIT GOVERNMENT

Premier Asquith Offers to Appoint Royal Commission to Make Investigation, But Plan Is Frowned Upon By Union.

London, Aug. 18.—Fifteen hundred telegrams giving the signal for a general railroad strike have been sent to the secretaries of all local unions of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants.

James Henry Thomas, M. P., Organizing Secretary for the western district of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, stated that war had been declared.

The Labor members of parliament met in the house of commons and adopted resolution supporting the railway men in their action and condemning the government for not bringing pressure on the railroad companies to remedy their grievances.

Hope that the strike on all the railroad lines might be avoided was dashed when the representatives of the unions refused to accept the offer of Premier Asquith, who offered to appoint a royal commission to investigate the working of the conciliation scheme of 1907.

The announcement of this offer and its refusal was made after a long conference held by Premier Asquith Sydney Bruxton, president of the board of trade, the managers of the different railroads and the executive committee of the Amalgamated Railway Servants' Union.

This had been preceded by a conference of all the members of the union's executive committee with Ramsay McDonald, chairman of the parliamentary labor committee. This latter conference was called to give the members of the union executive committee an opportunity of discussing the situation with Mr. McDonald previous to the meeting with Mr. Bruxton.

FURNITURE MEN VOTE TO RETURN AFTER 17 WEEKS

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 18.—At a secret mass meeting of the striking furniture workers of Grand Rapids last night, it was voted to call the strike off and return to work.

The meeting was held at Powers' theatre, and although the result has not yet been officially announced, it is stated by those in attendance at the meeting that the vote to return to work was almost unanimous. The strike had been on for 17 weeks and was one of the most determined fights between organized labor and organized employers in the history of the state.

The men demanded a nine-hour day instead of ten, 10 per cent increase in wages and the recognition of the union. The employers declined to concede any of these points, setting up the claim that it would be impossible to grant an increase in wages until all furniture concerns throughout the country saw fit to make the same advance.

William B. McFarlane, of Buffalo, international organizer for the National Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, was in charge of the men. The manufacturers formed an association and it is alleged put up $10,000 each as a pledge that they would stick together.

The strike involved about 6,000 men, including six unions, cabinet makers, trimmers and furniture packers, machine hands, finishers, upholsterers and wood carvers. The three former were united as carpenters and joiners.

During their idleness the men lost three times what the benefits came to, or, close to a half million dollars in wages. The losses to the manufacturers cannot be estimated. It is millions.

The act of the strikers in calling off the strike was directly due to the fact that the national body failed to send further strike benefits, it is said.

During the 17 weeks of strife, eight of the 50 plants made terms with the men on a nine-hour day and 10-hour pay basis.

The manufacturers promise their old men better pay as soon as possible, about Jan. 1. The workmen call off the strike with the belief that better hours and pay will follow the long, fruitless fight.

DIGESTORS WILL BE RUNNING AGAIN AFTER TWO WEEKS

Ang Arbor, Aug. 18.—Attorney A. J. Sawyer, Sr., dean of the Washtenaw county bar, is dead at his home here after a lingering illness due to kidney trouble.

The following clipping was taken from the Crawfordsville Journal, published at Crawfordsville, Ind., under date of Aug. 15 and will interest friends in this vicinity:

"Members of the hotel force at the Crawford House were somewhat distracted last night when a man walked in the lobby who to all appearances was the Hon. Theodore Roosevelt. A great many of the usual crowd in the hotel as well as the traveling men all gathered around and insisted that the man was the ex-president when in reality he turned out to be a traveling man. His name is H. C. Coe, and he is one of the jolliest traveling men that has struck the city for some time. Mr. Coe is traveling for the Newton & Haggerty Ladder Company of Ann Arbor, Mich. The genial traveling man says that he has a great deal of amusement out of the resemblance wherever he goes. Mr. Coe has traveled extensively and says that half the people call him 'Teddy.' The crowd at the hotel amused themselves by calling in all their friends to see 'Teddy.' Besides looking like 'Teddy' it might be parenthetically stated that Mr. Coe is a good advertiser."

The grounds are nearly cleaned up and within two weeks it is thought that the two digestors will be again in place and the business running as before. The men who were injured will all recover.

AVIATORS HURL BOMBS OF FLOUR

Mock Aero-Naval Battle Is Held in Chicago.

TARGET DIAGRAM OF WARSHIP

Motor Boat Patrol to Aid Aviators in Case They Fall into Lake—Reward for Lost Biplane—Funerals of Aviators.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—A mock aero-naval battle at Grant park gave Chicago her first opportunity to judge the airplane's usefulness in war.

Soaring high in the air the aviators hurled projectiles at the diagram of a battleship marked out, turrets and all, upon the ground at the aviation field. The bombs thrown, instead of being filled with explosives, contained flour. Striking the ground, they burst in a white cloud that resembled an explosion and also marked the spot of contact. In this way the percentage of accuracy which can be attained at various heights was gauged.

In order to add to the safety of aviators forced to descend to the lake, or who might fall into the water, a motor boat patrol was placed on duty by Captain J. C. Cantwell of the United States revenue cutter Tuscarora. Captain Cantwell was assigned to patrol the lake to aid any aviator who might meet with an accident.

Fast power boats from the fleet of the Columbia Yacht club were placed at his service, and the stretch between the Van Buren street gap and the four-mile crib will be carefully guarded.

A reward of $50 was offered by the meet association for anyone who discovers the location of Lee Hammond's Baldwin biplane, which plunged into the lake and sank on Monday. Hammond escaped uninjured, but has been unable to find a trace of his missing machine. The meet association will raise it, providing it can be found, and offers the reward in the hope that fishermen and power boat men will be induced to search for it.

A committee composed of Charles E. Bartley, Frank E. Scott and D. B. Griffith was appointed by the meet association to attend the funeral of St. Croix Johnstone, the aviator who was killed on Tuesday. The association also sent elaborate floral pieces, and flowers were also sent to Pittsburgh, where the funeral of William Badger was held.

The act of the strikers in calling off the strike was directly due to the fact that the national body failed to send further strike benefits, it is said.

During the 17 weeks of strife, eight of the 50 plants made terms with the men on a nine-hour day and 10-hour pay basis.

WOOL BILL IS NIPPED IN BUD

President Vetoes It in Special Message to House.

LACKS INFORMATION UPON IT

Indication Is Clear That President Taft Will Veto Every Tariff Bill That Comes To Him Before December.

Washington, Aug. 18.—President Taft sent to the house of representatives a special message vetoing the wool bill enacted through the Democratic-insurgent combination.

The president, as has generally been predicted, vetoed the bill on the ground that he has no scientific information on which to act. The president indicated clearly enough that he will veto every tariff bill sent to him in advance of a report by the tariff board. His message ought to help clear the situation in congress. The president said in his message:

"I was elected to the presidency as the candidate of a party which in its platform declared its aim and purpose to be to maintain a protective tariff by the imposition of such duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with a reasonable profit to American industries."

Repeated raids are made on the local Chinese gardens by people of the lower classes, who take with them carts, which they fill with the choicest vegetables. If the Chinamen on guard shows any curiosity he finds himself looking down the barrel of a pistol. For this reason many Chinese have refused to work and the gardens are being rapidly depleted. This will produce a vegetable famine shortly.

Simultaneously with the arrival here of Mr. Sune, comes the information from Torreón that the persecution of the Chinese has not stopped.

A special from Torreón says:

"Repeated raids are made on the local Chinese gardens by people of the lower classes, who take with them carts, which they fill with the choicest vegetables. If the Chinamen on guard shows any curiosity he finds himself looking down the barrel of a pistol. For this reason many Chinese have refused to work and the gardens are being rapidly depleted. This will produce a vegetable famine shortly."

Wm. H. Smith was elected president and Mrs. Caroline Colby, secretary and treasurer.

C. W. Smith gave an interesting history of the Smith family which was greatly appreciated by all. Several musical selections were given, both vocal and instrumental.

The most interesting feature of the day was a ball game. The young Smiths played against the old Smiths which resulted in favor of the former.

Guests were present from Detroit, Toledo, Lapeer, Milan and Ypsilanti.

At five o'clock ice cream and cake was served, after which many goodbyes were said and all departed for their various homes to meet again next year with Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Smith of Denton.

AN HONOR TO THE GOVERNOR.

A report is being circulated now amongst the politicians that the saloon interests are quietly at work, endeavoring to prevent the people from renominating Governor Osborn for a second term. It seems to have rankled in the breasts of the brewers and liquor dealers, generally, that the governor is unfriendly to the liquor interests, because of the following statement contained in his inaugural message:

"The saloon of today is a social sapphoxy. Always it has been a breeding place of lawlessness and a culture ground for vice. So arrogant had it become, that government by saloons and rule by breweries was the practical condition. The candidate who did not bow to the joint keeper, and the local official who did not recognize the political power of alcohol, as manifested through low groggery, were in a fight all the time to save their political lives."

But, however this may rankle in the breasts of the liquor trade, we are disposed to believe that, in the minds of every law-abiding citizen, a feeling of friendliness for a governor who had the moral stamina to tell the truth as he saw it about this business in his inaugural message, is a quality which they will honor him for and will gain him many more votes than will lose him votes. And we doubt whether any Republican or Democrat will have the courage to go before the people on that issue, if the only excuse he can give for being elected himself in place of Governor Osborn is the governor's attitude on the saloon question. He is not likely to poll many of the votes which would naturally and regularly go to Governor Osborn.

WHAT IS SOCIALISM?

Within the week two conspicuous side-lights on the questions involved are reported: 35,000 laborers with 30 bands meet in Trafalgar Square, London, to express their joy at the successful ending of a strike there; and 11,000 miners are on a strike at Monterey, Mexico, the chief grievance being that "they were so poorly paid that they had to live on Tortillas while the foreigners in the camp ate white bread."

The concluding chapter in this instructive book by Mr. Kauffman is devoted to the subject, "The Cooperative Commonwealth," and as a basis for this sermon the author takes the following text: "For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, if any man would not work, neither should he eat."—St. Paul: 2 Thessalonians 3:10.

The author says, "I shall be dogmatic only upon points whereon the greater number of Socialistic writers are in agreement."

Foundation.

Broadly speaking, the Socialist State must, according to these writers, be essentially democratic; the creation of the majority, it must naturally be the ultimate of republicanism.

"Society," says the Socialist, is composed of closely united individuals, of a legion of units, each unit having its rights as a unit, and each unit having its duties as a portion of the total. It is the result, in other words, of a double contest, every individual struggling on the one hand for his own freedom and development, and working, on the other, for association with his fellows. The object of the Socialist State would thus be the establishment of a more or less perfect harmony between the liberty of the one and the welfare of the many.

"It will at once be observed that the Socialist neither presupposes the individual equality of all mankind nor desires a body of paternalistic law that would be without that recognition of personal freedom which is the fundamental theory of democracy. Many romancers, and one or two philosophers, overlooking this condition, have, of course, painted the Cooperative Commonwealth as a state wherein all men would be made equal by force of statutory restraints, a state to which any thinking man—Socialist or non-Socialist—would infinitely prefer absolute monarchy; but the Scientific Socialist simply recognizes the impossibility of perfect liberty in imperfect humanity, sees that, as Mill has put it, the liberty of the many—that that alone—must circumscribe the liberty of the one, and seeks as his ideal government that system which shall grant the greatest amount of freedom for the benefit of the individual with the least amount of restraint for the benefit of society."

"All men, from this point of view, are alike both in their individual needs of food, clothes and shelter, and their social needs, cooperatively satisfied, of protection, production and distribution. But all men, from this point of view, are unlike in character, tastes, intellectual ability, spiritual strength and physical efficiency. The most, therefore, that a democracy can give them—is the provision that it should guarantee them—an equality of opportunity to work at such tasks as best suit each worker to receive the full value of his product. Governmental sacrifice cannot make individual equality; but it can and should provide that every man be rewarded in equal proportion for the work, whether great or small, that it calls upon him to perform; it can and should grant equality of opportunity for the ultimate development of the variously endowed or hampered individuals that have created it, and that it controls; and it can and should insist upon an equality of obligation among those individuals to the body of society at large."

HE TRAILLED BEHIND.

An Episcopal bishop in a New England state was the guest of a friend. The bishop conducted the services Sunday morning, and seemed much irritated by the fact that his friend in the body of the church was always about five words behind the rest of the congregation during the recital of the Apostles' Creed. At dinner that afternoon the eminent divine turned suddenly to his host and asked, with some asperity: "John, why can't you descend into hell with the rest of the congregation?"

MICHIGAN BRIEFS

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Electrotyper Convicted of Killing Former Grand Rapids Druggist.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 18.—After deliberating for five hours, a jury in the superior court, found Louis Benkert, a young electrotyper, guilty of manslaughter, in connection with the death of Bertel Jonker. The victim died following injuries received in a fight in a local lodging house. The only witness to the affair was the wife of the accused man, who could not be used as a witness against him. The evidence was largely circumstantial, and a verdict of acquittal was generally expected.

Jonker, a few years ago, was a well-to-do druggist and real estate owner here. After he had accumulated a fortune, he took a trip to the old country, to visit his parents and friends of his childhood, in Holland. A few years ago his wife was granted a verdict of separate maintenance from him. Mrs. Benkert, who is said to have been the cause of the quarrel which resulted in the tragedy, was a graduate of Vassar college, and formerly a woman of refinement.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 18.—The revenue cutter Mackinaw, Capt. Scott, has returned from a tour of inspection for the past ten days at the Les Cheneaux Islands, where owners in the district will have to forfeit something like $2,200 in fines for not complying with the law relative to lights and pilot laws.

The Vigilant is now at the same place continuing the inspection, and without doubt more launch owners will be fined. Few of those who have been reported to the Marquette office and who will be compelled to forfeit fines are Michigan residents.

ALL INSURANCE POLICIES ARE NOT OF EQUAL VALUE
ALL INSURANCE COMPANIES ARE NOT EQUALLY SAFE -- AND HONEST

ALL AGENCIES DO NOT REPRESENT THE BEST COMPANIES

THIS WAS MADE PLAIN IN A FINAL BULLETIN GIVEN OUT YESTERDAY CONCERNING THE DETROIT INDUSTRIAL HEALTH AND ACCIDENT COMPANIES WHICH HAVE BEEN BEFORE THE INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE OF THE NATIONAL CONVENTION OF INSURANCE COMMISSIONERS, WHICH FINISHED A THREE DAYS HEARING WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON. THE DETROIT FREE PRESS IN ITS REPORT OF THE INVESTIGATION SAYS:

"The Standard Accident Insurance Co. was the only Detroit organization to go unscathed through the fire of the investigation. It even received words of praise."

"Speaking of the Standard, the committee said: 'The examination of this company failed to develop any of the criticized conditions or tendencies previously given to the public by the committee. The policy of this company is to make prompt and full payment of all legitimate claims against it. None is rejected except for good and sufficient reasons in doubtful and disputed cases. The company endeavors to avoid litigation. Its treatment of its policy-holders is such that it is fully entitled to the confidence of the insuring public.'

"The Standard's industrial health and accident department is only a part of the organization. It is reported that on this business it has made but little money."—Detroit Free Press, Friday, Aug. 18th, 1911.

The fact that a Company is admitted to do business in the state does not prove that its policies are safe. If Ypsilanti should burn, THE HARTFORD FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF HARTFORD, alone would pay out in losses more than the amount any fire company is required to deposit with the state for the protection of policyholders.

THIS AGENCY REPRESENTS NONE BUT THE BEST COMPANIES FOR THE DIFFERENT LINES OF INSURANCE.

If you have a LIFE policy issued by the NEW ENGLAND MUTUAL LIFE INS. CO. of Boston, Mass., or an ACCIDENT or SICK and ACCIDENT policy issued by the STANDARD ACCIDENT INS. CO. of Detroit, Mich., or a BOND issued by the NATIONAL SECURITY CO. of New York, or a FIRE policy issued by the HARTFORD FIRE INS. CO. of Hartford, or the AETNA of Hartford or the NATIONAL of Hartford, or the NORTH AMERICA of Philadelphia, you will receive, in case of loss, every cent your policy calls for, with a fair and honest adjustment and you will not have to hire an adjuster or a lawyer to see that you get your money.

THIS AGENCY REPRESENTS THE ABOVE AND OTHER OF THE BETTER COMPANIES.
